WITH CAROLYN SUMMERS

As a landscape architect, Carolyn Summers has been designing outdoor spaces locally with native plants for years, including her own gorgeous garden in Hastings-on-Hudson.

Please join Carolyn as she presents a slide show on indigenous plants as an integral part of a healthy landscape. She will offer a selection of striking design alternatives using native plants in place of more commonly used exotics in a variety of traditional styles.

Carolyn is an adjunct professor at Westchester Community College. Her book, Designing Gardens with Flora of the American East will be available for purchase.
